When Jesus spoke again to the people, he said, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." (John 8.12)

We have experienced a lot of darkness thus far in 2020: pandemic, losses, unemployment, investments, virtual learning, and much more. It seems that the prophet Isaiah was speaking of 2020 when he wrote "people walking in darkness" (Isaiah 9.2). We are entering into the season of Advent, a season of preparation for Christmas. It will look different this year however we will be celebrating the Messiah's birth on Christmas! This Sunday we start a new worship theme: Light over Darkness. Darkness has always been around us, now in 2020 it seems to be heavier. Jesus is still "the light of the world!" It is my hope that all of us this Advent season will live into the full extend of Isaiah 9.2 (mentioned earlier) "The people walking in darkness have seen a great light." Let us be children of the light as we prepare for the birth of Jesus! Peace and God's blessings
