

It is for freedom that Christ has set us free. Galatians 5.1

This weekend we celebrate our nation's independence from the crown of Britain. This weekend is more than the celebration of 'socially distant' BBQs, the beach, and enjoying a day off from 'teleworking.' This weekend is about acknowledging our freedoms. The United States of America does need to continue the hard work to live into the words of the declaration of independence that all men (people) are created equal, however, within this great nation there are many opportunities for all woman and men. Our nation and the celebration of the Fourth of July remind me of the freedom that ALL people have an opportunity to obtain through the grace of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. This Sunday, we will be celebrating the FREEDOM that we who call on the name of the Lord have. Freedom that was given to us without ourselves having to go to battle but instead sent Jesus went to the cross and tomb, once and for all. Freedom that like our national freedom can be taken advantage of and sometimes even forgotten. Freedom that is truly free to all who choose. I look forward to celebrating and worshiping the Risen Lord with you this Sunday!
