

Now the earth was formless and empty, darkness was over the surface of the deep, and the Spirit of God was hovering over the waters. (Genesis 1:2)

I once heard someone say, “Don’t tell God how big your mountain is, instead tell your mountain how big your God is!” This statement is so powerful and true. We so easily get intimidated by the mountains that we face in life. It is as if we forget that our God is bigger than the mountains and that we are securely held in the palm of God’s hand. This Sunday we start a new worship theme, “Move Mountains.” The key verse for this five-week worship theme is: Matthew 17.14-20, ‘faith the size of a mustard seed.’ For our first Sunday, we will be focusing on the wonderful fact that God is on the move. Isn’t it great that God is not stagnant but instead moving? Where do you see God moving today, even during this pandemic? I look forward to worshipping with you this Sunday at 10 am online via Facebook live.
